Teaching experience at the University of Zurich

Title	Level	Abstract
“We the People”: Designing Democracy (with Dr Rebecca Welge) Spring term 2016, 2017	Master and PhD Seminar (approx. 20 students)	In this course we approached the study of democracy from a new perspective. The goal of the seminar was to develop and design an educational board game that illustrates both the core elements of democracy as well as the trade-off involved in designing democratic systems.
Clientelism and Democracy around the World Spring term 2015	Master Seminar (approx. 10 students)	This course provided an introduction to the implications of political clientelism for the quality of democracy. We analysed the phenomena in comparative perspective with an emphasis on democratic systems in Latin America, Western Europe, as well as Central and Eastern Europe.
Presidentialism and Democracy in Latin America Spring term 2014, 2015	Bachelor Seminar (approx. 15 students)	This course provided an introduction to the differences between parliamentary and presidential regimes from a neo-institutionalist perspective. We analysed the democratic performance of these regimes with a special focus on their relationship with democratic consolidation.

Teaching experience at the University of Cologne

Title	Level	Abstract
Electoral and Party Systems in Comparative Perspective Spring term 2012, 2013	Bachelor Seminar (approx. 20 students)	This course provided an introduction into the comparative analysis of electoral systems and party systems. We analysed the socio-cultural causes of electoral systems as well as the consequences of different electoral system designs on party competition and voting behaviour.
The Political System of the Federal Republic of Germany Spring term 2009 Winter term 2008, 2010	Bachelor Seminar (approx. 60 students)	This course provided an introduction into the political system of the Federal Republic of Germany. We analysed the socio-cultural context, the institutional democratic design, as well as the role of Germany within the multi-level system of the European Union.
Uruguay and Switzerland in Comparative Perspective: Introduction to the Concept of Consensus Democracy Winter term 2009	Bachelor Seminar (approx. 5 students)	This course provided an introduction into the empirical study of democratic systems. We did so by applying Arend Lijphart’s concept of consensus democracy to the cases of Uruguay and Switzerland.
